causes, unnoticed by the vigorous, drive a nervous invalid to the verge of distraction. It is as unnecessary to particularize these as it is impossible to guard against them. The root of the evil is usually imperfect digestion and assimilation. To assist these functions, and through their renewed, complete discharge to reenforce weak nerves, in conjunction with other portions of the physical organism, is within the power of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, systemat ically and continuously used. There is no disappointment here, no matter what or how grievous the failures of other so-called tonics. No selative or oplate—avoid both!—can compare with this invigorating nerve tranquilizer. Constipation, billousness, malaria, rheumatism, kidney troubles are cured by it.

RATHER HARD ON FAVA

SECRETARY BLAINE INTIMATES UNFAIRNESS.

A Question of Veracity That Needs a Little Explanation - The Italian Government Still Has Representatives in Washington

-Substance of the Correspondence. Secretary Blaine has furnished to the press the substance of the correspon-dence with the representatives of the King of Italy. The correspondence consists of two letters-one from Baron Fava to the Secretary of State; the second the reply of the Secretary of Sate. which is addressed to the Secretrry of Legation. The statements of Secretary Blaine, if they are sustained, place the Italian Minister in a very awkward posi-

The letter of Baron Fava is very curt and peremptory, and betrays to a con-siderable degree an ignorance of the institutions of this country or a willingness to ignore the existing conditions. Two demands are made, both very peremptory in character. They are: That the United States shall guarantee to Italy a speedy trial and conviction of the alleged murderers; that the United States shall recognize the principle of the right of Italy to indemnity for the killing of the Italian subjects. The Italian Minister claims that four of the killed Italians were subjects of the King of Italy. Laron Fava states that the nited States refuses to act upon either of these demands, in consequence of which and because his efforts had proved inefficacious, he should leave the United States as soon as possible, leaving the current business in charge of the Secre tary of Legation. Secretary Blaine's reply is much more ourteous, but not less determined. Mr Slaine is civil enough to state that Baron Fava's relations with the State Department for ten years have been marked by courtesy. But Baron Fava forgot his iplomatic manners. His letter read as f it were written in a huff and intended to be uncivil. Mr. Blaine directly charges Baron Fava with misrepresentaion in two important particulars. the first instance, in stating the demands of the government of Italy he has changd the phraseology of the demand of the King as it was reported to the Secretary of State from the cable message by Fava himself. The King of Italy, according to the cable left with the Secretary of State, insisted on the right of Italy to lemand and obtain punishment of the nurderers and the indemnity of the vicims as unquestionable. Baron Fava makes the naked demand without qualiication or assignment of reason. Moreover, the Secretary of State shows that would be impossible for the United States, or for any government, to accede to the first demand as to the punishmen of the alleged murderers in advance of a trial and a verdict of guilty. Thereupon he Secretary of State gives the Secretary of Legation a lesson in the constitutional law of the United States and of the constitution of Louisiana. Mr. Blaine very curtly says he is unable to see how any Government can give a guarantee that persons accused of crime shall be punshed in advance of a jury trial and a verdict of guilty. The right of trial by ury is granted to the accused both b the Constitution of the United States and by that of the State of Louisiana, and in nearly the same terms. As to the statement of Baron Fava that the United States has declined to entertain the sec ond demand as to indemnity, Mr. Blaine flatly charges Baron Fava with misrepresentation and raises a question veracity. Mr. Blaine pertinently adds that he shall regret if Baron Fava has communicated such a conclusion to the Government of Italy. Mr. Blain asserts the contrary to be the fact, and says that the United States so far from refusing, has distinctly recognized the principle of Indemnity to those Italian subjects who may have been wronged by the violation of the treaty of Feb. 2. 1871. Mr. Blaine took occasion to say, fused to permit herself to be unduly hurried and that while impatience may be natural it does not always secure substantial justice. The letter to the Secretary of the Italian Legation is of a character which will force the Government of Italy to ascertain from its recent Minister here whether he will rest under the charge of however, that the United States has re-mendacity made against him by the Secretary of State. The fact that Secretary Blaine addessed his last letter to the Marquis Im perialli, Charge d'Affaires, demonstrates that the Government does not regard the rupture of diplomatic relations caused Otherwise the communication would have been addressed to the Italian Government direct, or through the medium of Minister Porter at Rome How the matter is viewed by the Italian Government will be disclosed by the reply that is made to the Secretary's letter. If the Charge d'Affaires replies as such it will be an acknowledgment that the Italian Government is still represented in the United States by its legation. But if he announces that he is without authority that direct diplomatic relations between the two countries is at an end. Aphorisms.

icians now believe that Consump tion is a germ disease. In other words, instead of being in the constitution itself it is caused by innumerable small creatures living in the lungs having no business there and eating them away as caterpillars do the leaves of trees.

The phlegm that is coughed up is those parts of the lungs which have been little bacilli, as the germs are called, are too small to be seen with the naked eye, but they are very mi alive just the same, and enter le breathe, and through the pores of blood and finally arrive at the lungs where they fasten and increase with them, expells them, heals the place they leave, and so nourish

This article is a carefully prepared physician's pre-scription, and has been in constant use for nearly a century. There are few diseases to which mankind are subject more distressing than sore eyes, and none, perhaps, for which more remedies have been tried without success. For all external inflammation of the eyes it is an infallible remedy. If the direc-tions are followed it will never fail. We particularly invite the attention of physicians to its merits.
